BPD Carer Support Group

For families, carers and friends

The MIFWA BPD Carer Support Group is a place where families and friends can come together to support each other and learn about borderline personality disorder (BPD) and relevant services and supports. It is not suitable for workers or those with a lived experience of BPD, unless they are also in an active caring role for someone with BPD.

Here are some guidelines to help ensure everyone gets the most out of attending.

- Confidentiality – what is said in the room stays in the room.
- Please respect other by accepting of their experiences and differences and each other's capacity to solve their own problems.
- Please aim to speak with respect about the person you care for and be mindful of their privacy when sharing.
- Please be aware of your level of sharing for your own safety and that of others. For example, limit details regarding self-harm, suicide, or assaults.
- MIFWA staff and volunteers reserve the right to utilise Protective Interrupting, for example when the details of an individual's sharing may impact negatively on other participants and themselves.
- Please respect each other's time and allow time for everyone to contribute.
- We value the importance of being heard and validated. Please allow others to problem solve and seek their own solutions.
- We encourage you to share information about services and supports that have helped you and the person you care for. Advice giving is discouraged.
- We respect your ability to self-manage and if you become distressed, take a break if you need to. Please tell a facilitator if you need support. You are encouraged to complete a personal safety or wellness plan.
- MIFWA recognises that carers may need to be connected to more appropriate services.
- No pets, thank you. A suitably trained assistance animal may accompany their handler.
- During MIFWA programs you cannot sell items or promote businesses.
- MIFWA staff are not allowed to accept gifts.
